Mohamed El Bachir El Ibrahimi University of Bordj Bou Arréridj
Faculty of Economic, Commercial and Management Sciences
First Year – Common Core 2025/2026
Subject: English1

Unit 9: Management

UNIT FOCUS:

- Reading: Levels of Management.
- Vocabulary: Pairs. Synonyms .
- Grammar: Modal Verbs.

"Management is doing things right; leadership is doing the right things." (Peter Drucker)

Reading

Read the Text. Underline the New Words.

Management

Management[1] (or managing) is the coordination[2] and administration[3] of tasks to achieve a goal, whether it is a business, a not-for-profit organization, or government body. Such administration activities include setting the organization's strategy[4] and coordinating the efforts of staff to accomplish these objectives through the application of available resources[5], such as financial, natural, technological, and human resources. Management can also refer to the seniority structure[6] of staff members within an organization. The term "management" may also refer to those people who manage an organization - individually: managers.

Workplaces depend on the strength of those in management positions. In addition to directing employees, managers must communicate with more senior professionals in their company to ensure the team meets goals and furthers the company's mission[7]. Although the duties of managers differ based on their industry and workplace, most fulfill the same basic responsibilities[8].

To be an effective manager, you'll need to develop a set of skills, including planning[9], communication, organization and leadership[10]. You will also need extensive knowledge of the company's goals and how to direct employees, sales and other operations to accomplish them.

Large businesses and corporations often have three primary levels of management organized in a hierarchical structure[11]. You may have heard terms that refer to these different layers of management, such as "middle management"[16] or "senior management."[20]

Low-level managers[12] include roles like front-line team leaders, foremen[13], section leads and supervisors. This level of management, the lowest in the three layers, is responsible for overseeing[14] the everyday work of individual employees or staff members and providing them with direction on their work.

Low-level management's responsibilities often include ensuring the quality of employees' work, guiding staff in everyday activities and routing employee problems through the appropriate channels. They also are responsible for the day-to-day supervision and career planning[30] for their team, as well as providing feedback[15] on their employees' performance.

Middle management Middle managers, the next layer in the management hierarchy, are overseen by senior management. Middle management includes those working in the roles of a department manager[17], regional manager and branch manager. Middle management is responsible for communicating the strategic goals[18] developed by senior management down the line to front-line managers[29].

In contrast with senior management, middle managers spend more of their time on directional and organizational functions. This includes defining and discussing important policies for lower management, providing guidance to lower-level management to achieve better performance and executing[19] organizational plans at the direction of senior management.

Senior management Senior management, including the chief executive officer, president, vice president and board members[22], is at the top layer of this management hierarchy. Senior management needs to set the overall goals and direction of an organization. Senior management develops strategic plans and company-wide policy[23] and makes decisions about the direction of the organization at the highest level. They also usually play an essential role in mobilizing[26] outside resources and are held accountable[25] to the company's shareholders[24] as well as the general public for the performance of the company.

Social scientists study management as an academic discipline[27], investigating areas such as social organization and organizational leadership. Some people study management at colleges or universities; major degrees in management include the Bachelor of Commerce (B.Com.), Bachelor of Business Administration (BBA.), Master of Business Administration (MBA.), Master in Management (MScM or MIM) and, for the public sector[28], the Master of Public Administration (MPA) degree. Individuals who aim to become management specialists or experts, management researchers, or professors may complete the Doctor of Management (DM), the Doctor of Business Administration (DBA), or the PhD in Business Administration or Management.

(From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia)

Glossary

1 Management The coordination and administration of tasks to achieve a goal in a business or organization.	11.Hierarchical structure An organizational system where people are ranked one above another according to status or authority.	21 .Chief Executive Officer (CEO) The highest-ranking executive in a company.

2.Coordination The organization of different elements or people so they work together effectively.	12.Low-level management The bottom layer of management responsible for overseeing everyday work (e.g., supervisors).	22.Board members A group of individuals elected to represent shareholders and govern the organization.
3.Administration Activities that include setting strategy and coordinating staff efforts to accomplish objectives.	13.Foremen .Workers who supervise and direct other workers, typically in a manual trade or factory.	23.Policy A course or principle of action adopted by the organization.
4.Strategy A plan of action designed to achieve a long-term or overall aim.	14 .Overseeing Watching and directing the execution of a task or the work of others; supervising.	24 .Shareholders Individuals or entities that own shares (stock) in a company.
5.Resources Assets available to an organization, such as financial, natural, technological, and human resources.	15 .Feedback Information provided to employees regarding their performance to help them improve.	25.Accountable Being responsible and answerable to someone (e.g., to shareholders) for actions and results.
6 .Seniority structure The ranking of staff members within an organization based on their level or length of service.	16 Middle management The intermediate leadership level responsible for communicating strategic goals to front-line managers.	26 .Mobilizing Organizing and encouraging resources or people to act in order to achieve a particular objective.
7 .Mission The core purpose, aim, or goal of a company or organization.	17.Department manager A middle manager responsible for a specific division or department within a company.	27.Academic discipline A branch of knowledge taught and researched at the college or university level.
8.Responsibilities Specific tasks or duties that a person is expected or required to do.	18 .Strategic goals Long-term objectives defined by senior management for the organization.	28.Public sector The part of an economy that is controlled by the government (e.g., requiring an MPA degree).
9.Planning The process of making plans for something; a key management skill.	19 .Executing Putting a plan, order, or course of action into effect.	29.Front-line managers Managers who directly supervise non-management employees (synonymous with low-level managers).
10 Leadership The action of leading a group of people or an organization.	20 .Senior management The highest level of managers (e.g., CEO, Board) who set overall goals and direction.	30.Career planning The process of structuring and managing an employee's professional growth and path.

Digest what you read

A. Based on the information given in the text, select True, False, or Not Given.

.....1- Management involves setting strategy and coordinating staff efforts.
.....2- Low-level managers are responsible for setting the company's overall goals.
.....3- Middle managers report directly to front-line team leaders.
.....4- Senior management is accountable to the company's shareholders.
.....5- Supervisors are part of middle management.

B. Select the best answer for the items below. Refer to the text to check your answers.

1. What is the primary role of low-level management?
   A. Setting company-wide policy.
   B. Developing strategic plans.
   C. Overseeing the everyday work of employees.
   D. Mobilizing outside resources.

2. According to the text, what is a key duty of middle management?
   A. To provide daily supervision for all employees.
   B. To communicate strategic goals to front-line managers.
   C. To be accountable to the general public.
   D. To set the overall direction of the organization.

3. Which level of management is responsible for developing strategic plans?
   A. Low-level Management
   B. Middle Management
   C. Senior Management
   D. All of the above

4. The skills needed by an effective manager include:
   A. Planning and communication.
   B. Only financial analysis.
   C. Directing sales exclusively.
   D. Working independently.

5. Who are included in Senior Management?
   A. Team leaders and foremen.
   B. Department and branch managers.
   C. The chief executive officer and board members.
   D. Front-line staff.

Vocabulary Loading

A. Using the words given in Box 1, find definitions from Box 2.

Box 1	Box 2
1. Senior Management	A) The people responsible for planning, organizing, and directing work.
2. Administration	B) A long-term plan for achieving a company's goals.
3. Hierarchy	C) The highest level of management, setting overall direction.
4. Supervisor	D) The process of dealing with or controlling things or people.
5. Strategy	E) A low-level manager overseeing daily tasks of employees.
6. Mission	F) A system where people are ranked one above the other.
7. Manager	G) The core purpose or aim of an organization.
8. Feedback	H) Information about a person's performance of a task.

B. Find matching pairs. Translate them into Arabic.

Part 1	Part 2	Pairs	Translation (Arabic)
Senior	Management	Senior Management	الإدارة العليا
Strategic	manager
Front-line	plans
Company	leader
Middle	policy
Performance	feedback
Organizational	mission
Chief	goals
Executive	structure
Board	Officer
Available	resources
Low-level	functions
Directional	members
Staff	efforts
Overall	management

C. Fill in the blanks using the proper words from the previous section.

1. The CEO is part of the _____.
2. A company's _____ is its core purpose.
3. A _____ is a low-level manager who oversees daily work.
4. Managers need to coordinate the _____ of their staff to achieve goals.
5. Middle managers are responsible for executing _____ plans.

D. Enhancing Your Vocabulary

Match the words on the left with their synonyms on the right.

1. Coordination | a) Aims
2. Administration | b) Available
3. Objectives | c) Organization
4. Accessible | d) Management

5. Crucial | e) Vital

Grammar Injection

Fill in the blanks with the correct form of the verbs from the reading.

Coordinate, Achieve, Oversee, Communicate, Develop, Set, Further, Provide, Ensure

1. Managers must _____ tasks to _____ a goal.
2. Low-level managers _____ the everyday work of employees.
3. Senior management _____ the overall goals for the organization.
4. Middle managers _____ strategic goals to front-line managers.
5. A good manager should _____ that the team meets its targets.

Grammar Handling

Modal Verbs

Modal verbs are special verbs that behave differently from normal verbs. They give additional information about the function of the main verb that follows them. They are used to express ability, possibility, permission, or obligation.

Common modal verbs include: can, could, may, might, must, shall, should, will, would.

Characteristics:

- They are followed directly by the base form of another verb (without 'to').
  - E.g., A manager can motivate the team.
- They do not take an '-s' in the third person singular.
  - E.g., She must finish the report. (Not She musts finish)
- They form questions and negatives without using 'do/did'.
  - E.g., Can you lead this project? You should not be late.

Modal Verb	Function	Example
Can	Ability / Possibility	A supervisor can resolve routine problems quickly.
Could	Past ability / Suggestion	We could improve communication with a new system.
May	Formal permission / Possibility	The team may proceed with the first phase.
Might	Uncertainty	The project might be delayed.
Must	Obligation / Necessity	All employees must attend the safety briefing.
Should	Advice / Recommendation	You should provide feedback to your team regularly.
Will	Future certainty / Promise	I will review your proposal by tomorrow.
Would	Hypothetical situation / Request	Would you like to lead the meeting?

Practice:

Complete the following sentences with an appropriate modal verb: can, could, may, must, should, will.

1. A CEO _____ make difficult decisions for the company's future.
2. _____ I leave early today to attend a seminar?
3. To be effective, managers _____ communicate clearly with their teams.
4. We _____ meet our sales targets if we work efficiently.
5. You _____ consider implementing a new training program for staff.
6. The board of directors _____ hold a meeting next week.

Translate the text into Arabic.

Large businesses and corporations often have three primary levels of management organized in a hierarchical structure. Low-level management is responsible for overseeing the everyday work of individual employees. Middle management is responsible for communicating the strategic goals developed by senior management. Senior management needs to set the overall goals and direction of an organization.

.....
.....
.....
.....
.....
.....
.....
.....

Self-check: Check your progress in this unit. Tick (√) the statements which are true about you.

• I can define the three levels of management in English.
• I have learned more than 20 new words from this unit.
• I understand how to use modal verbs like 'must', 'should', and 'can'.
• This unit helped me understand my technical subject better.