Mohamed El Bachir El Ibrahimi University of Bordj Bou Arréridj
Faculty of Economic, Commercial and Management Sciences
First Year – Common Core 2025/2026
Subject: English 2

Unit 14: Marketing

UNIT FOCUS:

- Reading: Marketing
- Vocabulary: Collocations & Marketing Mix
- Grammar: Infinitives of Purpose

"Marketing is the science and art of exploring, creating, and delivering value to satisfy the needs of a target market at a profit." (Philip Kotler)

Reading

Read the Text. Underline the New Words.

Marketing

Marketing is the process of planning, designing, pricing, promoting and distributing ideas, goods and services, in order to satisfy customer needs, so as to make a profit [1]. According to Philip Kotler defines marketing as "the science and art of exploring, creating, and delivering value to satisfy the needs of a target market [2] at a profit. Marketing identifies unfulfilled [3] needs and desires.

Companies point out how the special characteristics or features [4] of their products and services possess particular benefits that satisfy the needs of the people who buy them. Non-profit [5] organizations have other, social, goals, such as persuading people not to smoke, or to give money to people in poor countries, but these organizations also use the techniques [6] of marketing.

In some places, even organizations such as government departments are starting to talk about, or at least think about their activities in terms of the marketing concept [7] which is based on the four Ps:

- Product: deciding what to sell.
- Price: deciding what prices to charge.

- Place: deciding how it will be distributed and where people will buy it.
- Promotion: deciding how the product will be supported with advertising, special activities, etc.

A fifth P which is sometimes added is packaging [8]: all the materials used to protect and present a product before it is sold. The four Ps are a useful summary of the marketing mix [9], the activities that you have to combine successfully in order to sell.

Marketers often talk about market orientation [10]: the fact that everything they do is designed to meet the needs of the market. They may describe themselves as market driven, market-led or market-oriented. Most management and marketing writers now distinguish [11] between selling and marketing. The "selling concept" assumes that resisting consumers have to be persuaded by vigorous [12] hard-selling techniques to buy non-essential goods or services. Products are sold rather than bought.

The "marketing concept", on the contrary, assumes that the producer's task is to find wants [13] and fill them. In other words, you don't sell what you make; you make what will be bought. As well as satisfying existing needs, marketers can also anticipate and create new ones.

Market opportunities are generally isolated by market segmentation [14]. Once a target market has been identified, a company has to decide what goods or service to offer. The company must also take account of the existence of competitors [15], who always have to be identified, monitored and defeated in the search for loyal customers.

Rather than risk launching a product or service solely on the basis of intuition [16] or guesswork [17], most companies undertake market research [18]. They collect and analyze information about the size of a potential market, about consumers' reactions to particular product or service features.

Glossary

No	Term	Definition
1	Profit	The financial gain made in a transaction.
2	Target market	A particular group of consumers at which a product is aimed.
3	Unfulfilled	Not satisfied or brought to completion (needs/desires).
4	Features	Distinctive attributes or aspects of a product.
5	Non-profit	Not established for the purpose of making money.
6	Techniques	Particular methods or ways of doing something.
7	Concept	A general notion or abstract idea.
8	Packaging	Materials used to wrap or protect goods.
9	Mix	A combination of different factors used to influence sales.
10	Orientation	The primary focus or direction of a business.
11	Distinguish	To recognize or point out a difference.
12	Vigorous	Strong, healthy, and full of energy (intensive).

13	Wants	Desires for goods that are not basic necessities.
14	Segmentation	Dividing a market into distinct groups of buyers.
15	Competitors	Other companies offering similar products.
16	Intuition	The ability to understand something instinctively.
17	Guesswork	Making decisions without enough information.
18	Market Research	Gathering information about consumers' needs and preferences.

Digest what you read

A. Answer the following questions based on the text:

1. How does Philip Kotler define marketing?
2. What are the main components of the "Marketing Mix"?
3. Explain the difference between "Selling Concept" and "Marketing Concept" in your own words.
4. Why is "Market Research" considered safer than "Intuition"?
5. What is the role of "Market Segmentation" in finding opportunities?

B. Select the correct alternative to complete the meaning:

1. Non-profit organizations use marketing to achieve (financial / social) goals.
2. The "Selling Concept" assumes that products are (bought / sold).
3. Market-led companies focus on the (producer's / market's) needs.
4. (Competitors / Customers) must be monitored and defeated to gain loyalty.

C. Matching Information:

Match each "P" with its corresponding management decision:

1. Product (__) a. Choosing distribution channels.
2. Price (__) b. Designing advertising campaigns.
3. Place (__) c. Selecting the right features and quality.
4. Promotion (__) d. Setting discounts and credit terms.

Vocabulary & Collocations

Complete the table by finding the missing word from the text:

Verb	Noun (Collocation)	Arabic Translation
Satisfy	Customer	إرضاء احتياجات الزبون
Make	a	تحقيق ربح
Undertake	Market	القيام ببحث السوق
Identify	Target	تحديد السوق المستهدف
Achieve	Social	تحقيق أهداف اجتماعية

Grammar Handling: Infinitives of Purpose

Rewrite the sentences using "to + verb" (Infinitive of purpose) to combine them:

Example: Companies use advertising. They want to support their products.

Answer: Companies use advertising to support their products.

1. Marketers study the competition. They want to identify their strengths.

   .....

2. Managers use market segmentation. They want to isolate opportunities.

   .....

3. Firms collect consumer data. They want to analyze market reactions.

   .....

4. We add packaging to the product. We want to protect it during transport.

   .....

Translation

Translate the following paragraphs into Arabic. Focus on using professional economic terminology:

"The marketing concept assumes that the producer's task is to find wants and fill them. In other words, you don't sell what you make; you make what will be bought. Rather than risk launching a product or service solely on the basis of intuition or guesswork, most companies undertake market research. They collect and analyze information about the size of a potential market, about consumers' reactions to particular product or service features, and so on. The company must also take account of the existence of competitors, who always have to be identified, monitored and defeated in the search for loyal customers."

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....